ECE492 Capstone Design I
Assignment #3
Test Plans

Working as a group, create a template for an acceptance test, integration test, and unit test for the system you are designing. Using the templates created and working individually, create a specific test plan for one unit expected to be a part of your overall design. Use materials from both lectures on test and validation in determining the format for your test templates.

Your group should turn in one document including the created templates. Individually, everyone should turn in the specific test plan created for a specific unit of your design.
